

SHORTNESS OF FUNDS HALTS SIDEWALK WORK

The regular meeting of the Town Council was held last week when Mayor Middleton was faced by a full board of Councillors.

The minutes of the previous meeting were adopted as read by the Secretary.

A letter from the Separate School Board asked that arrangements be made to fill the vacancy on that Board owing to the recent death of Trustee Perera, and Coun. Cork, as chairman of the By-law committee presented By-law No. 281 providing for the appointment of Mr. N. B. Kenny as returning officer for this necessary election. The necessary three readings were given by the by-law, and nomination day was set for Monday, August 16th next from 11 a.m. to 12 noon. An election for the office to be held on the Monday morning following it demanded.

Permission to erect a street business sign at their place of business on Second Avenue was granted to Wainwright Motors on a motion by Coun. Billing, this to be so placed at the risk of applicants.

The town constable was instructed to look into the matter of the construction of a cesspool at the back of the new Buffalo Cafe, and granting of permission for same from the local Board of Health.

Coun. Cork brought up the matter of the payment of $15.00 to Mr. Frank Stevens for a building which the Council had sold previously, and Coun. Welch moved that a cheque for that amount be issued Mr. Stevens in full settlement of the claim.

The report of the provincial municipal inspector on town affairs was read (as appears elsewhere in this issue) and this was filed on a motion by Coun. Cork.

Coun. Robinson reported that the sidewalk under contract with Messrs. Fraser was nearing completion, and that it was a real first-class job.

After some discussion he moved that the sum of $50.00 be advanced to Mr. Fraser on account of this work, and this was carried.

Coun. Welch asked that he had a

Softball League Report for Week

Games played in the Wainwright Community Softball League during the past two weeks have tended to even up the race for the play-off, as well as providing a few upsets. The League play-off will consist of two semi-final games; the first and third place teams; and the second and fourth place teams, meeting in sudden-death contests on Friday, August 13th. The winners will then play off for the Mystery Trophy, emblematic of the League championship.

The Pats, administered a severe white-washing to the Clerks when they finished their game with a 16-1 score.

The Power Gang turned back the High School by an 8-4 count when these teams met. L. Dahl drove out a home-run for the High School.

The Pats, behind the pitching of Don Stewart, upset the winning streak of the Power Gang when they emerged victors 25-10. Marshall Patterson helped himself to two home-runs.

On Friday night the cellar-place Clerks sprang a surprise on the High School by finishing 7 innings of close softball with the score tied at 10-10. Hickey, Springfield, Leroux and Grogan are new names in the Clerks line-up.

Sunday afternoon the Indians of Greenhills turned back the High School team by a 14-7 score thus taking over first place in the League.

Monday night, in a replay of the tie-game played on Friday, the High School defeated the Clerks by a 11-9 score.

In an exhibition game played at the Fair grounds the Pats outthrew the Power Gang to win 20-18.

Debate Postponed on Relief Program

Decision as to whether relief administration in Alberta will be centralized was stayed until the next session of the legislature, pending which members will be given opportunity to study the effect of such action. This was the result of a two-hour debate at the concluding sitting of the special session on Friday, when D. M. Duggan, Conservative leader and chairman of the special legislative committee investigating relief, submitted his report.

Two main points featured the recommendations, namely that relief administration be centralized under an independent board on the chairmanship of a cabinet minister and with three others on same, one nominated by the combined cities of the province; one by the Alberta Association of Urban Municipalities; one by the Alberta Association of Rural Municipalities and one by the unemployed, and that all financing of relief be assumed by the province with such assistance as the province could obtain from the Dominion government and contributions from municipalities.

Mr. Duggan moved that the report and recommendations be concurred in.

An amendment was later moved by W. J. Lamplsey, S.C., Peace River, and seconded by I. M. MacCoun, S.C., Gleichen, that the report be held over for consideration at the next session. This amended motion was finally carried on a verbal, unrecorded vote.

Mr. Duggan asked that centralization be adopted and the necessary legislation be brought down at the next session. He also asked that municipalities be made to contribute toward the cost of administration.

The committee, he said, was also urging that employment offices be established so that all available posts in the province would be made known to those desiring same.

Owing to a mishap at Clear Lake on Sunday, the assistance of the ladies had to be sought, and the way they walked that truck out of the sand proved their absolute necessity. The job and the tow-ropes stood the strain, too!

Hugill Asked to Leave Cabinet Post

According to the demand of Premier William Aberhart, Hon. J. W. Hugill, K.C., has placed his resignation as attorney general and a member of the executive council in the hands of the Premier. Announcement of this effect was made on Saturday afternoon by Hon. Mr. Hugill.

Premier Aberhart and Hon. Mr. Hugill held a brief conference in the Premier's office during the Saturday noon hour, to discuss the date upon which the attorney general will relinquish his post.

Hon. Mr. Hugill, in tendering his resignation, notified the Premier he was complying with his request in so doing. Reason for this is that the attorney general had previously made arrangements to attend a meeting of the Canadian Bar Association, and he left Edmonton on Saturday night to be in attendance.

It is likely that his actual relinquishing of office will be about the middle of September, with the Premier carrying on as acting attorney general in the meantime.

Wedding Shower At Cooper Farm

In complement to the new-weds—Miss Erica M. Bonner and Mr. Fred L. Cooper, who were recently married by Rev. A. Love at Edmonton, some 400 persons wended their way to the home of Cooper farm just northwest of town. Friday night last to enjoy a "wedding shower", and right merrily they passed the time, too.

To the music of quite a number of local musical artists the huge throng danced to old and new tunes until about "sun-up" next morning, and wended their way homeward full pleased with such a night of entertainment.

The literally scores of presents which were showered upon this young and popular couple were varied, rich, ornamental and valuable (a full list will appear next week) and as these were opened up after a sumptuous supper the young bride and groom were literally apbrogated at the offering on behalf of the whole community, and their very numerous friends and for which they extend to one and all their heartiest thanks and appreciation.

Bank of Montreal 9th Crop Report

Crops in the Prairie Provinces are ripening rapidly and harvesting, which has commenced, will be general in about ten days. Rains, varying from scattered showers to heavy downpours have been beneficial in Manitoba and Alberta and at a few points in Saskatchewan. Crop conditions in Alberta vary from good to virtual failure; those in Manitoba are on the whole favourable. Improvement has been shown in the feed situation in the Prairies generally.

Favourable growing conditions continue in Ontario, where harvesting of fall wheat is about completed and the sowing of oats and barley is well advanced. In the Maritime Provinces rain is now needed in many parts. In British Columbia, warm weather continues with beneficial rains in the interior.

In Alberta, rains, except in the Peace River district, have been beneficial to crops and pastures. Sunshine is now required. A heavy growth of weeds is reported in the east central area and considerable hail damage has occurred in northeast and west central areas. Crops in the southeast are a virtual failure. In Saskatchewan, reports indicate that little grain will be threshed in the greater portion of the southern and central regions. Late sown cereals show improvement in the extreme northwest; grasshoppers are causing considerable damage in Manitoba, crop prospects on the whole are favourable. While severe rust infection has increased and the yield will thereby be lessened, it is expected that the crop will not be seriously affected, as most of the wheat has filled well. Slight damage from grasshoppers and army worms is reported.

Grace Moore in Musical Drama

The kind of picture that doesn't attempt to preach any moral or teach any lesson, "When You're in Love" tells a warmly human love story, varying the comedy, drama, romance and surprise in orderly and effective fashion.

Evidence of its gay, airy character is seen in the fact that Grace Moore sings "Minnie the Moocher" in the most approved hot jazz fashion. In contrast to this she also sings Schubert's "Serenade." The music is a treat for any audience.

In Mexico, Grace Moore, managed by astute Alene MacMahon, but weighed down by a trio of scatter-brained sycophants wants to get to America to sing at a musical festival of her old maestro Henry Stephenson. Cary Grant is a wealthy tramp artist. Miss MacMahon in order to get her protégée across the border arranges a marriage of quick divorce for Miss Moore and Grant. When Grant later invades his wife's domicile in New York love is born, but it erupts into rage when Grace Grant after proceeding to go away with him, reneges as she remembers her debt to Henry Stephenson.

"When You're in Love" is grand entertainment from every possible angle. See it at the Elite theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

Totem Pole Golf Tourney Sept. 5-12

JASPER, PARK, Alta.—One of the outstanding golf events in Canada is the annual Totem Pole tournament which takes place over the Jasper Park Lodge course this year from September 5 to 11 inclusive.

The tournament which is played over a magnificent scenic 18-hole course laid in the Athabasca Valley in the heart of the Canadian Rockies, promises this year to be the most successful yet staged over this picturesque course, according to Joseph Van Wyck, general manager of hotels, Canadian National Railways.

During this Golf Week the best amateurs strive for the honor of winning the silver totem pole and other prizes which are awarded to men and women players in competition. The Jasper Park Lodge course becomes doubly attractive during this period, states Mr. Van Wyck for since its inception eleven years ago, Jasper Golf Week has been an event of growing importance in the activities of golfers; players from all parts of Canada, the United States and other countries taking part in the competitions.

Arrangements have been made for all-inclusive rates over Canadian National Railways for the benefit of golfers participating in this event. These rates cover round-trip transportation, standard sleeping car occupancy, seven days accommodation at Jasper Park Lodge, green fees and bus transfer to and from the Lodge.

Lieut.-Gov. Bowen Prorogues Session

Four-Day Meet Makes History in Province

Special session of the Alberta legislature was prorogued at 4:00 p.m. on Friday, by His Honor Lieut.-Gov. C. Bowen, the shortest session in the history of this province, only four sitting days being required.

Galleries were crowded to see the wind-up of what is considered one of the most momentous sessions in the history of the province.

In proroguing the house, His Honor said that "In bringing to a conclusion this the fourth session of the eighth legislative assembly, I desire to express my appreciation of the earnest and thorough manner in which you have applied yourselves to your public duties."

"A number of important measures have come before you for decision. I have noted with much satisfaction the careful attention you have given to all of these, keeping steadfastly in mind the promotion of the welfare of our province."

"In relieving you, from your duties and declaring the assembly prorogued, I pray that under Divine Providence, our province will soon attain to the attainment of the rule of measure of prosperity and happiness for all the people."

Immediately after the house prorogued the Social Credit members held a caucus which lasted only a short time.

Members afterwards declared that the purpose was only to formally say farewell until they met again. Most members left for their homes almost immediately.

M. L. Forster is 64 Years Young!

On Sunday last quite a number of the old-timers called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Forster to offer congratulations and best wishes on the occasion of Martin's 64th birthday anniversary and a pleasant time was spent in reminiscing and recalling incidents which have gone into the town's history since the celebrant arrived here approximately 30 years ago.

In the evening a big family birthday dinner was served with the whole family (including three grandchildren) present except three. Lots of merriment prevailed, especially in the cutting and sharing of the big birthday cake which graced the festive board.

Congratulations are extended with the hopes of very many more birthday celebrations for this Wainwright pioneer.

Inspector O.K.'s. Town's Finances

The following is a copy of the report of the municipal inspector which was ordered filed at the next sitting of Council, and which shows the clerical affairs of the Town to be in A1 shape:

After citing the several officials of the Town, it continues—Cash: Verification of cash at date of inspection (June 30, 1937) found correct, in accordance with the records produced. Receipts entered in cash book to date. Deposits entered, balanced monthly. Two forms of receipts are in use. Only one bank account maintained. No cash on hand at date of inspection.

Minute Book: Monthly statements prepared and submitted to Council. Correspondence received noted, and disposition of same recorded. Accounts passed for payment listed. Estimates are shown in detail and a by-law has been passed setting the mill-rate. Minutes would appear to quite fully reflect the business transacted.

Assessment Roll: Arrears carried forward and balance with the outstanding taxes shown for 1936. Receipts returned to date.

General: Debentures, $27,561.41. Savings have been transferred to the general account but still show a credit of $40,000.00. All records are well and neatly kept.

H. T. CAMERON, Inspector.

Twelve Bills Passed In Four-Day Session

The main purpose of the special session of the provincial legislature which closed on Friday after a four-day gathering was to amend the Social Credit Act so as to facilitate workings of the Board appointed to establish the new economic order in this province.

With Royal Assent given to this bill, every banker in the province will now have to obtain a license to operate in Alberta within fifteen days. The bill provides for a license fee of $100 on each bank building and $5 on each employee therein.

The bills to which assent was given were—

Act to amend the Treasury Department Act.

Act to amend the Alberta Social Credit Act.

Act to empower the Village of Fairview and the Municipal District of Fairview, No. 858 to enter into an agreement for the provision of hospital facilities.

Act to amend the Limitations of Actions Act, 1935.

Act to amend the Judicial Act.

Children of the Jungle

(Condensed from Boy and Girl Tramps of America) by Reader's Digest

It is raining as we struggle through the rain-soaked streets in the August twilight—Little Alf and Little Alf is 13. He reminds me of a thin alley kitten in the growing darkness we climb into an empty box car. The rain is now a steady torrent against the sides of the car. Out of the water and darkness comes a girl. "Where to, boss?" Her voice trembles childishly.

"Up Iowa," answers Little Alf. I scratch a match to light a cigarette and inspect our companion. She is younger than Alf. Hairless, coatless in short knickerbockers, she looks like a little tomboy who dreamed in her brother's clothes and was caught in the rain. Without a word she settles down in a corner by herself and begins to pray. Softly at first like the purring of a cat; then louder and louder until we can distinguish: "They will be done on earth as it is in Heaven..."

These were specimens of the boy and girl tramps of America. Children really—flesh-and-blood youngsters who should be in high schools and homes and were in box cars and jungles (hobo camps). For two years I lived with them dressed always like another homeless wanderer. I collected case histories of over 500 boys and girls associated on terms of intimacy and equality with several thousand traveled in six states for a transient, excepting the World War and under all conditions, the daily life of a boy or girl living in box cars.

I had seen pictures of the Wild Children of revolution-racked Russia. I had read of the free youth of Germany after the World War. I knew that in every nation, following a plague, an invasion, or a revolution, children left their homes and became vagrants. Before my own experience I had always believed that in America we managed things better. During the depression, over a quarter of a million of our own boys and girls took to the road. Why? Out of 463 boy and girl tramps who gave me their histories, 387 stated definitely that it was hard times at home that drove them away. As Ragged Dicks put it: "There were seven of us kids. When the big trouble (depression) came and I couldn't get a job, I didn't want to pick bread off the kids' plates at home, so I just been tramping."

"My old man was crippled," explained Jennie. "Mother worked nights cleaning, but she couldn't stand it, and she died. Dad tried to keep us kids, but cries! What could he do? Nobody would hire me and the rest were too young. So a home took the kids, my mother and I just scrambled."

It is September, and a tinge of winter haunts the air. In a clearing near the railroad are 12 boy tramps and three girls. Their clothing has been washed at a public spring; bushes are hung with shirts, underwear and socks. A girl of 15, extremely pretty and extremely thin, sews a patch on a boy's pants. A second girl boils coffee and potatoes and directs the barbecuing of a small hog. The farmers have been kind to the child tramps. There are vegetables by the sack, melons and apples in a pyramid. The hog, of course, was not a gift. But then, he might have been hit by a truck.

Farther down the tracks, in a grassy clearing sheltered by small trees, is another jungle with 24 boys and girls. In the center a huge smudge to fend off mosquitoes smokes all night long, watched carefully by pairs of boys serving turns. As we continue down the tracks we find other camps. Five or six girls and boys are bunking here, 35 or 30 there. Any thicket along the track may be a jungle.

The child tramps have developed their own tribal life. They divide into gangs of a dozen or less. Larger units are cumbersome; smaller, not strong enough for protection. Each unit has its chief. Often he is the largest boy. Always he is the cleverest. Not always, however, is he the oldest. One quality the leader has without exception—courage; one quality he demands of his followers—loyalty. No cheating, no holding out of food is allowed. The tribe is communal. If one boy has a truck today, stealing or begging, he divides among all. Tomorrow somebody else may have luck.

Within the tribe there is division of labor. There are boys who are cooks, beggars, barbers, and so on. Co-operating in their tasks, jungle life moves more smoothly. Frequently this division is by sex, the girls remaining in camp, while the boys hit the stem (beg on the street).

Most gangs have a restricted circuit seldom over 500 miles. In summer every farmer's garden offers a meal, every haystack or grove a sleeping place; in winter when the boys must seek shelter and live upon relief, the cities call. Then relief facilities are swamped; lodging houses are still inadequate. Without enough accommodations for the homeless, transients, including child tramps, are usually squeezed out. In fact, relief stations are more stringent toward youthful vagrants: an adult is given six meals and two nights' lodging; but a boy, one meal and one night's lodging; a girl tramp is sent to jail. Many go south in winter but more remain in the North. Wherever they find a little protection from the cold they sleep; in country towns 'the jail is always open; in cities there are bridges, old buildings, tunnels and sewers. Yet more than one young tramp has gone to sleep outside to know no waking.

It is December and very cold. Peggy Al and I have slept in a mission, but our ticket forces us out of town by noon. A well-beaten path leads to an unused icehouse on the shores of a lake. As we enter the semi-gloom, we can make out the forms of 40 boys and 10 girls squinting around a makeshift stove. We contribute two rings of bologna and some bread, and in return receive a full meal of stew, baked potatoes and turnips. After supper we sit and gab. It is six below zero; nobody ventures out. For the first week since we arrived, the first watch of the night is that the fire does not die. The third watcher is a girl of 14 who came from Nebraska in nothing but a jumper, overalls and a raincoat. She arrived six weeks ago and dare not leave for fear of freezing. Soon we are relieved by a new watch; we pull caps over our ears, button overcoats, and prepare for sleep. "Cover your feet with sawdust Shorty," warns the girl. "Then if the fire goes out, you won't freeze. There was a guy here a week ago didn't cover his feet, see. He's in a hospital now."

Another winter jungle was a cave on a bank of the Mississippi. The front was of boards, a low canvas flap at one side for a door, and a smoke-slit at the top. A fire at the front kept out the cold. Here 12 boys and 2 girls were living; they held checker tournaments on homemade boards; their beds were boards and straw-filled sacks.

You have much to learn on the road. "You gotta be quick," says Texas, and truly surprises the education of the child tramps. "You gotta be quick" physically, to duck by the watchman and flip a freight; to jump a truck and toss off some fruit; to dodge detectives in the city and farmers in the country. "You gotta be quick" mentally, to size up the boys and girls, to see up to a freight and the corner picks them up. They steal at an unlucky moment and jail swallows them.

The child tramp learns about life—who can do that and ignore the education of the child tramps?—and how to live. In five has female members. About one child in 20 is a girl—discussed usually in breeches, but just as appealingly homeless as the boys. And young; all girls I have seen with the boy tramps are under 20. They live in the jungles and box cars, serving as mistresses and maids, sharing the joys and sorrows of life on the road. They treat all boys and men alike; the girls are available to any and all in the camp. Occasionally a girl is paired with a boy with a gang for weeks; others prefer variety. They go from jungle to jungle without discrimination; they know they will be welcomed.

On the road the boys participate in box-car discussions of unemployment, government policies, Communism, the workers' revolution, and religion. Of patriotism they appear to have not a shred; of service to the state they know nothing. Stealing and begging are regarded as occupations; no moral principle is involved. "It ain't stealing when you're hungry and willing to work and you can't get nothing to eat."

It is far from encouraging to see the youth of our land spend their days in idleness acquiring habits that are definitely anti-social. Toward the problem we have, however, until recently, adopted an ostrich policy. True, the Civilian Conservation Corps helped, but it has done little to check the exodus of little children. It enlists only boys, who must be 18 and have dependents. The few transient detention camps like the forestry corps tend to be one-sex and adult camps. Their primary purpose is to reduce adult vagrancy; on the boys and girls in box cars they may have no effect whatever.

In any event the camps are but expedients. The transient camp may save boys from the road today, out for tomorrow we need a more comprehensive program. What we need is a Child Conservation Corps.

MODERN WOMEN

CHARL ORMOND WILLIAMS

President of National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc.

For her thirty-seven years of volunteer service with the American Red Cross Miss Mabel Boardman has received a handsome silver bowl and the admiration of thousands of men and women all over the country. Miss Boardman's official title is secretary of the organization, but unofficially she is called the "Mother of the Red Cross" because of her unflinching interest and devotion in building up this magnificent body. Also she has received the name of "god-mother" of the League of Red Cross Societies which includes sixty-two countries and 40,000,000 members. The late President Taft said of her, "We cannot think of the Red Cross without thinking of Miss Boardman and we cannot think of Miss Boardman without thinking of the Red Cross."

Those who have seen framed pictures of pressed flowers may have wondered whose imagination and genius were responsible for these attractive novelties and also, how anyone managed to preserve the flowers in such naturalness. Mrs. Mary Harrison Snider, of Davenport, Iowa, and her sister, Mrs. Cora Harrison Schafer, of California, originated the craft and devoted seven years to working out a plan for flowers of such hue as could be most naturally preserved. Mrs. Schafer's husband, a chemist, suggested the chemicals to perpetuate the natural colors of the flowers. The two women work separately and both have the privilege of gathering specimens in certain public parks. They were invited to hold a joint exhibition at the Century of Progress in Chicago, since when there has grown up a continued demand for their pictures.

An outstanding and internationally known leader in the peace movement Miss Josephine Schain has received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from Smith College. Miss Schain, a graduate of the University of Missouri, has been director of the department of International Relations of the National League of Women Voters and national director of the Girl Scouts of America and is now chairman of the National Committee on the Cause and Cure of War. The citation said of her that she was a "devoted laborer and a valiant and effective leader in the cause of peace freedom and justice among the peoples of the world."

Dr. Florence B. Seibert, professor of biochemistry in the Henry Philip Institute of the University of Pennsylvania, has received a grant from the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation to work in the laboratory of Professor The Svedberg at the University of Uppsala, Sweden.

The World of Wheat

By
H. G. Strang.

Director, Research Department,
Sears Grain Company, Ltd.

Sir Charles Saunders is dead. His memory, and the fruits of his labour, however, will live for uncountable years.

Added by the efforts of his brother Percy, and of his father Dr. William Saunders, Sir Charles, in 1907, originated the famous Marquis wheat. Marquis came at an opportune time when the western wheat area was expanding to the north, so that that sterling variety, Red Fife, was being frost-killed in the late summer. Marquis, a week earlier than Red Fife, and of the same high quality, has, it is computed, added not far short of one hundred million dollars to the pockets of Canadian and American farmers.

Marquis is equally noted as a parent for breeding purposes. The famous variety Reward, the rust-resistant Thatcher, and other valuable sorts, being direct offsprings from it.

Sir Charles was one of those true agricultural scientists, of which Canada is fortunate in having many in her service, who indenture their lives to the improvement of agriculture, to the increasing of the farmer's welfare and to making available to the people of the world a plentifulness of food. Millions of people throughout the world have never heard his name or who have never heard his name are better off because Charles Saunders lived and laboured.

Following factors have tended to raise price: Argentine conditions dry, seedling delayed—Expect wheat import to increase; wheat production in Prairie Provinces wheat crop estimated at 160 million—Europe buys considerable quantities U.S. wheat—Increasing complaints of dryness in Australia, recent rains inadequate—Germany making large corn imports—Governments to control wheat and rye crops—Rumanian corn crop smallest since 1928. Corn exports forbidden.

Following factors have tended to lower price: Expect sizable U.S. wheat export surplus—Harvest commences in U.S. northwest—Railroad legislation to increase wheat production—Conditions generally favourable for growth of U.S. corn crop—Japanese rice stocks above last year—Mexican wheat coast, vegetable exports increase.

LIONEL BARRYMORE

At 26 He was a Star; At 53 a Has-Been;
At 57 the Greatest Actor in America

I was there that night in 1918 when Lionel Barrymore opened on Broadway as Milt Shanks in the Copperhead. It was a brilliant occasion, a triumph that made dramatic history. An excited audience leaped to feet and cheered wildly and frantically through fifteen curtain calls.

Fifteen years later, I had a long talk with Lionel Barrymore in the Green Room at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's headquarters on Broadway. When he began talking about his struggles for recognition as an actor, I was astonished. "What? You? A Barrymore, with all the prestige and glamour of your family behind you—surely you never had to struggle!" I demanded.

He looked at me for a moment and, in his low rumbling voice, replied: "Why, there ain't no such animal as you're talking about. A famous name is often a handicap." The Barrymores had a strange and rather haphazard childhood. Their father, Maurice Barrymore, was one of the most charming and captivating men who ever made off-stage history with his escapades. He would spend his last nickel to buy an animal. He used to ship bears home—bears and monkeys and wild cats and a wide assortment of dogs. John and Lionel spent one summer in a farm house on Staten Island with no one for company but an old negro servant and thirty-five dogs of all shapes, sizes and breeds.

Lionel, Jack and Ethel Barrymore appeared in Rasputin and the Empress, Hollywood proudly announced that this was the first time they had all played together. But Hollywood was wrong. The three Barrymores made their debut together more than forty years ago. The theatre was a dilapidated barn on the rise of up the hill from the house of John, the audience was made up of kids from the neighborhood. Admission was a penny

NOTES FROM VERNILION

SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE

The month of July has been a particularly busy one at the Vernilion School of Agriculture, Field Days, Short Courses and District Meetings have brought over 1200 visitors and students to the School of Agriculture. Activities for the month included Re-union of V.S.A. graduates, Short Course for School Fair Winners, Short Course for Farm Men and Farm Women, Social Credit picnic, Field Day for Junior Grain Clubs, District Convention of the Women's Institute and the Agricultural Society's Camp for Boys and Girls.

At the annual re-union of the V.S.A. Alumni there were present representatives of graduating classes of almost every year since 1916 and of nearly every district in central and northern Alberta. There have been some 600 graduates from this school since 1916 when it opened under the principality of E. A. Howes, now Dean of Agriculture at the University of Alberta. Many of the graduates are now prosperous farmers in various districts of Alberta where their practices command respect throughout the community, while others have advanced to prominent positions in research and other activities related to Scientific Agriculture.

Dr. W. H. Alexander, Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Science at the University of Alberta was principal speaker at the re-union banquet. In the course of his address Dr. Alexander commended the happy relation that exists between the School of Agriculture and the University and highly praised the students in the Faculty of Agriculture for the important part they take in the work and life of the University.

Visitors from from Wainwright district included Ivan Jackson, June Jackson and Glenn Vallau.

Boys and girls who won the highest number of points in their local school fairs last fall enjoyed a one week short course at the school. Seventy boys and girls registered from various parts of Central and Northern Alberta, twelve of them having come from the Peace River country. The week's activities included a study of various phases of agriculture and household economics with a good deal of time devoted to recreation and sports. Winners of the $75 scholarship were James Court, Dayland and Edith Miller, Fullerton, while those given honorable mention were Donald Selvey, Dapp and Kenneth Baptist, Torfield; Mabel Craig, Beaver Crossing; and Rex Scott, Grapton.

On their way home after the School Fair Short Course, a group of about twenty had a stop-over in Edmonton and took the opportunity to see the sights. In the course of their travels they visited the Parliament Buildings, the Edmonton City Dairy and Borden Park. It was a happy reward for rural boys and girls who got a great thrill out of their many experiences and were most enthusiastic in expressing their appreciation of the holiday.

Farm Women's Week again proved to be a popular occasion for rural housewives to take a brief holiday and enjoy the companionship of neighbour women from far and near while living in the dormitory. Registrations were received from districts as far west as Barrenhead and east to Lloydminster. The programme arranged for them included practical hints in sewing, cooking, household administration and, floriculture as well as a variety of recreational activities.

In response to a number of requests received last year, the school staff arranged for a Farmer's Week to run concurrently with Farm Women's Week. A considerable number of farmers registered and took a keen interest in subjects discussed. Lectures and demonstrations in cereal crops, forage crops, soils, animal production and practical blacksmithing were included in the programme. It is expected that this course will become quite popular with farmers in the next few years as they become familiar with its nature.

Some 300 people attended a Field Day held at the school on July 24th for Junior Grain Club members. Mr. H. W. Scott, District Agriculturalist at Camrose, brought a number of the Clubs which he is supervising in the Camrose district to meet with Junior Clubs from the Vernilion district. Principal item on the programme was a visit to the grain and grass plots and a study of the different varieties of wheat. Several members of the Camrose Board of Trade helped supply transportation for the Juniors and took the opportunity to inspect facilities of the School for training young men and women.

HOW TO FIND HEALTH

A distinguished English physician has told us that Health is found in a way of life rather than in a bottle of medicine. In supporting this statement, there is no reflection cast upon the value of medicine. There are a few drugs which we might say are worth their weight in gold because for ever to discover that the sound camera could be moved around the lot—a discovery that revolutionized talking pictures. He dashed the industry with such unforgettable films as Ruth Chatterton in Madame X, Lawrence Tibbett in The Rogue Song and Barbara Stanwyck in Ten Cents a Dance. He was fifty-three, and he honestly believed his acting days were over.

Just as he had resigned himself to directing for the rest of his career, he got his chance. Norma Shearer was making A Free Soul. A great actor was needed for the part of the father. Lionel Barrymore stepped in front of the camera and covered himself with glory. He won the medal of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. And then the very producers who had formerly regarded him as a "has-been" fought for his services. Hit Broadway hit—The Yellow Ticket, Mata Hari, Grand Hotel, Rasputin and the Empress, Ah Wilderness! I asked Lionel Barrymore if he had ever discouraged before he made his come-back in Hollywood. He replied, "No, I've been up and down all my life. Lots of people said I was through; but I never thought much about it. I was always too darn busy to worry about my troubles."

GUM-DIPPING is a patented Firestone process not used in any other tire. With it every hundred pounds of cord fabric absorbs eight pounds of rubber and, as a result, every fibre, every cord and every ply in a Firestone tire is coated and insulated with pure rubber to counteract internal heat and friction—the greatest enemy of tire life. Due to this extra process, Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords have 58% longer flexing life. Yet you do not pay one cent more for this extra value! See the nearest Firestone Dealer today!

GET THE WEEDS

Whole-hearted response to the request for people to clean up their fields and lots and roads of noxious weeds should be forth-coming from every property owner. The curse of Canada Thistle and Perennial Sow Thistle throughout the district is spreading rapidly and if not checked will be the cause of the abandonment of much valuable property in the district.

Many of us think we are doing a great favor to our neighbor when we take care of our own weeds. Probably we are, but at the same time, if every one does not keep weeds in check, every property owner in the district suffers. Land loses much of its market value if it becomes infested with weeds, and too, a heavy stand of weeds robs the soil of moisture that might otherwise be preserved for growing crops.

Give this question your whole-hearted support and get your neighbors to do the same. In a district like ours we should be the freest of weeds of any district in Alberta. If we are not, there's a reason, and it is to our advantage to remove that reason and clean up the district especially as owing to the late rains the pests are growing with such rapidity.

AID OR RELIEF

The National Employment Commission suggests that the indiscriminate use of the word "relief" be replaced by a more intelligent understanding of the methods by which relief is administered and unemployment the relief business very effectively.

In June, 1936, there were in the Dominion of Canada 1,065,000 persons reported as being in receipt of direct "relief" provided jointly by the Dominion, the provinces, and the municipalities. For June, 1937, the authoritative estimate made by the Dominion Department of Labour with the co-operation of the provincial Governments is 932,000 persons in receipt of relief. The reduction during the year is encouraging but the total figure of 932,000 persons is not much help in solving the critical problem of returning people to a self-supporting basis.

Are there 932,000 persons unemployed and in receipt of relief? By no means—not unless one is willing to speak of infants, school children, wives, farmers working from sunrise to sunset, and many groups incapable of employment as being unemployed. Certainly no one is going to attempt to find jobs for these groups. Under reasonable interpretation of the word unemployed, only a small fraction of the 932,000 is to be so classed.

It is high time we started calling things by their right names. Let us reserve the term "relief" for its original meaning in this country, the help given by municipalities, with or without the assistance of the province, or by private agencies, to the indigent poor and unfortunate. Let us apply the term "assistance" to help given under pre-determined conditions to particular groups by separate statutes such as Mothers' Allowances and Old Age Pensions. The term, AID, should be used to describe the type of help to which the Dominion contributes. If we are to see the divisions and the magnitude of the problem before us, we must further divide AID into Unemployment AID for those who are unemployed, Occupational AID for workers on their own who have lost their occupation or their earnings from it, and Agricultural AID for farmers who still have their farms and their occupation, but, because of drought or other misfortune, are without income.

TELLING THE FOLKS

The Life Insurance Officers' Association have renewed appropriations for another year advertising in the daily and weekly Canadian Press, among which The Star is one of those chosen.

They have in the past eighteen months campaigned extensively with an educational type of advertisement, stressing the stability of Canadian Life Insurance Companies; the great value of insurance to individuals during time of stress; its stabilizing effect on the national economic structure. By their campaign they have endeavored to offset in some degree the campaign largely conducted over the radio, we are proud to say, in which political parties with the belief that more votes owe money than are owed money have justified past and probable future debt legislation.

The insurance companies have used the Alberta weekly papers to carry their message to the 70,000 odd subscribers of Alberta weeklies and evidently feel that their campaign is proving beneficial.

Coun. Robinson reported that the new sidewalk on Fourth street was practically completed at a cost of approximately $215.00 and the job appeared to be a real good one. In the town's interest he thought it advisable to gradually extend the sidewalk programme as funds permitted, but at present he felt that his committee would have little money left from 1937 appropriations. To test the feeling of Council in this matter he moved "That Council enter into an agreement with J. W. Fraser to build two blocks of sidewalk on Queen street from Fourth to Sixth avenue at a cost of $264.00 plus $20 for filling; this to be paid for by half cash and balance July 1st, 1938."

Coun. Linsmore while wishing to see more sidewalk work done felt that old matters should be cleaned up first and Coun. Billing favored the same idea. Coun. Welch expressed himself as being fully in favor of the project, so that in a few years every street would have a good walk which would last for years without further expense, although he realized that the town's funds were possibly too low now to undertake any further big expenditure. After a full discussion the motion to undertake the new work was lost; only Coun. Robinson giving a favorable vote.

Mr. Fraser, who was present, spoke to the matter of cleaning up an old deal, and Coun. Welch moved that "The lot, block 6, on Second avenue be transferred to Mr. Fraser in full settlement of all accounts of asphalt used in sidewalk on Fourth avenue from Main street to King street, free of all encumbrance at this date." This motion was carried, the matter thus finally disposed of.

Coun. Robinson brought up the matter of clearing weeds, and wanted this seen to by the Property Committee, but Coun. Welch considered that this work was in the proper hands and the matter dropped.

At this stage the Council went into Committee of the Whole to further discuss the gas question, and at the request of Coun. Link, who was appointed to the chair, the Star man then left the Council Chamber.

We are informed that upon rising the Committee again reported "Progress!" and then adjourned after talking through an extension following the legal retiring hour, Council adjourned with nothing further done.

THE CO-OPERATIVE WAY

Dear Editor:

Dear Sir: There seems to be a great desire on the part of the people to try and find some solution of our problem by some form or co-operation, and with this in mind I would like to express my views.

I think we are all agreed there is something wrong with our social set up. Many will agree the root is rotten, but as evolution works slowly we must be sure that the planting of the new growth is done by those who know healthy plants from decayed ones.

If the competitive system is the cause of rotting, and if the fungus has entered into every branch of the tree, would it not be wise to try and get rid of this disease first? The powers that be act as a hurricane, harkening the sturdy oak and destroying the new growth. Can these powers be altered to so act as a ray of sunshine after an April shower? Personally, I believe they can, by starting a new system of one with another, dealing on a co-operative basis, entering the field wherever we feel we can master the hurricane, each new growth helping to protect each other, until we find the day has arrived when the rain comes and the sun shines, and all are rushing to feel its rays.

PUBLIC NOTICE

GILT EDGE M.D. No. 422

BY-LAW No. 48

The Council of the Municipal District of Gilt Edge No. 422, enacts as follows:

"That a speed limit, not exceeding TEN MILES per hour shall be set for all vehicles using the Roadway through the N.E. ¼ of Sec. 2, Twp. 44, Rgs. 5, W. 4th M.; this Roadway being the deviation running north and south on the west side of Clear lake.

Done and passed in Council this Third day of August, 1937.

By order,

H. U. TAYLOR, Secretary-Treasurer.

The co-operative way is not as some would like to have it, saving $c here and $c there, but a new way of life, subordinating self for the whole in a voluntary way, discarding the Dog eat Dog for Each for All and All for Each.

If we are willing to carry co-operation to its ultimate goal, it will take us to the point of one man's time is equal to another man's time in the exchange of goods and services.

Man was never given a brain to take advantage of another, but to help his fellow man. Each for All, All for Each.

To achieve our goal we will make far greater progress by the U.F.A. not being secondary to anything, but ever keeping a vigilant watch on all the movements, being powerful enough to cause new growth or decay where necessary; educating ourselves to the best way to find love and happiness for all the people.

I think all our commercial undertakings should support the parent organization, and were we strong enough to wield public opinion, and if they realized we were the means of keeping them alive, they would not hesitate to help carry on this necessary work of keeping themselves healthy.

B. C. LEES.

DUST IS DEFEATED

... When it Tackles the
"CATERPILLAR" Tractor!

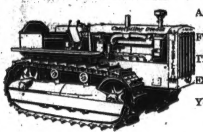

Dust tries to enter final drives—but is out of luck. Automatic bellows-type seals of distinctive "Caterpillar" design and guard these vital parts. Spring expansion keeps the sealing surfaces hugging chromium-plated contact faces with effective pressure—to retain lubricant and exclude dust and grit.

Dust attempts to attack track-roller bearings. But ingenious seepage-type seals trap and carry it harmlessly away, before it even approaches a bearing.

And the alloy-steel track pins and bushings are carburized with a deep, glass-hard surface—to resist abrasive wear. Further, controlled heat-treatments make the cores of these parts tough to shatter shock and defy breakage.

Note, too, the "Caterpillar" engine's thorough protection from dust. The large-capacity, centrifugal-type air cleaner—spark plugs and valve mechanism enclosed—special filters for crank case breather and even magneto.

No wonder dust is conquered! And no wonder neighbors envy the low upkeep costs and extra years of performance that "Caterpillar" Tractor owners enjoy!

Gas Money Buys Many Other Things

The present average price to the consumer over all Canada for gasoline sold for use in motor vehicles, including all taxes, is 28.03 cents a gallon.

The total tax content per gallon is 7.8 cents. In other words when a consumer buys a $3 worth of gasoline, he pays 27.83 cents in taxes.

This figure includes taxes which a recent computation points out are capable of being easily determined, those that can be directly charged by those handling gasoline in one or the other of its various stages on its way to the consumer. In freight bills, in motor trucking, in the dealer's spread, and, perhaps in half a dozen other ways, there is concealed taxation which ordinary processes of computation cannot easily segregate. Presumably, even if this were done, the total chargeable against each gallon of gasoline would not be much greater, but nevertheless it would be something. Naturally the price of gasoline varies in the different provinces. It is these differences in cost to the consumer which result in the lower tax content per gallon of gasoline in Alberta and Saskatchewan, for instance, than in Ontario, in spite of the fact that the rate of gasoline tax in Alberta and Saskatchewan is a cent higher.

Because of the higher prices in the western provinces, due to higher freight rates, higher crude costs, the consumer doesn't get as many gallons for his dollar.

An all-woman political conference is to be held in the Transvaal.

Visitor to Alberta Says Weeklies Not Well Appreciated

I. H. Jensen, a newspaper man from Boone, Iowa, who has been visiting in the Cayley district, praises the weekly newspapers of Alberta but says they should be given much better support. Following is an extract of a statement made by Mr. Jensen and published in the High River Times:

"I have seen several of your newspapers in Alberta and they are of a very high standard. I certainly compliment your weekly here, but you are laboring under very hard conditions. It would seem that up here the weekly press is still on a sort of charity basis, without the businessmen of the town realizing how important a medium the newspaper is, the most important element of any community.

"In our state the press is on a substantial assured footing, and its importance is fully recognized. It has sources of revenue apparently denied to the newspapers of Alberta. For one thing, the town council minutes complete, are paid for. That is compulsory. It is the business of the taxpayer to know what his money is going for, and the service of publication has a definite monetary value. Municipal council meetings would go under the same head. Then we have a county administration for roads, parks, etc. A report of each meeting of this board is required to be issued in the papers having largest circulation, and this copy is paid for at a good rate. Nothing legal most important element of any community.

"The room for improvement that I can see in the Alberta press, is a recognition by the public of its vital importance to the community, and the necessity for its maintenance. This is realized by our governing bodies, who go on the principle that the business of the people should be made available to the people through the press, and that this service is legitimate expenditure. With us, the press is a great controlling body, disciplined within its own organization—serving as best it can to promote any good cause and maintain honest standards. But reports of business proceedings are reckoned as having a cash value, to the community. I confess I do not see how you continue to publish such a high standard of newspaper with such meagre support."

SYNOPSIS: Ellen Mackay, on her way from school at Winnipeg, to join her father at Fort Edson, meets the boat by which she was to travel. Hearing that another boat is to start north in the morning, Ellen goes to the owner, John Benham, and begs him to give her a passage. To her surprise he flatly refuses.

Angry and puzzled Ellen tells her mother, a kindly old housekeeper of her difficulty and Fat with the help of one of Benham's crew succeeds in getting Ellen on board as a stowaway.

When the vessel is well under way Ellen emerges from her hiding place and faces John Benham who now cannot help taking her with him.

During the voyage Ellen begins to be strongly attracted by John. But when she reaches Fort Edson she finds her father broken, ill and disgraced, and learns that his troubles are due to one man—John Benham.

FIFTH INSTALLMENT

"I have thought of little else, since learning about it," she said wearily. "I refuse to give up without a battle, but it seems almost beyond hope to think of averting it."

Deteroux's cold eyes gleamed in open admiration. "You are very courageous, mam'selle. And Bernard Deteroux will be most happy to help you in any way possible. Now, because I have been much through all this country and you have but lately come back to it, it may be that I could give you information of many kinds, should you desire it. Ask me what you will. I promise that your confidence will not be abused."

Ellen looked at him seriously for a moment. She sensed breeding behind Deteroux somewhere. The man did not talk like the usual run of river-men. His brain was plainly alert, his tongue fluent.

"Very well," said Ellen presently. "In a case of this sort it is well to know one's enemies in their true light. My father feels that John Benham, the free trader, is to blame for all his woes. Is it possible that one man can come into this district and in three years upset the reputation of an old established port like Fort Edson?"

Deteroux shrugged. "It would seem so, mam'selle. I know of no other free trader in your territory but John Benham."

"But how can he do it?" persisted Ellen. "He cannot afford to offer more in trade than can the Hudson Bay Company."

"True," nodded Deteroux. "But perhaps it is not how much he offers for his furs but how he offers."

Ellen stared at him for a moment.

"I do not understand," she said. "I forget, mam'selle, went on Deteroux swiftly. "I forget that when you left this port four years ago the old order still existed. But in four years many things may change as you know. In many ways our Indian is a child. He has ideas that are strange, mam'selle, and which we cannot grasp. Also he has weaknesses upon which the unscrupulous may trade. An Indian values many things, mam'selle, but most of all he values whisky."

Ellen's eyes widened. At last she saw. "Whisky," she murmured. "John Benham trades whisky for furs? But that is against the law. The North-west Mounted Police will not permit trading whisky to the Indians."

Deteroux laughed softly. "You forget, mam'selle. You forget that though they are a great organization, the red-coats are, after all, but men. They are few and the north country is measured in millions of square miles. They cannot be in all places at once. And if Benham is cunning as we know he is, he can do much that the law cannot prove. And the law must have proof."

Deteroux gave vent to another of his expressive shrugs. "What can we do without the law? And then also—what can we prove? We know but we cannot prove—yet. Perhaps, later, this weapon may lie in our hands. And then—there is another thing."

"What is that?" Deteroux looked at Ellen steadily. "You must understand, mam'selle that I do not like gossip. But in my desire to help your father—and you—I will speak of it. John Benham trades well with the Indians, not only because he gives them whisky—but because he is of their blood. He is one of them."

For some strange, inexplicable reason, Ellen stared almost angrily at this accusation. The reaction was unconscious, yet none the less honest.

"Is this also something you know, but cannot prove?" she asked, and her manner was cold.

Deteroux's cold eyes gleamed in open admiration. "You are very courageous, mam'selle. And Bernard Deteroux will be most happy to help you in any way possible. Now, because I have been much through all this country and you have but lately come back to it, it may be that I could give you information of many kinds, should you desire it. Ask me what you will. I promise that your confidence will not be abused."

stammered. "You are admirable, mam'selle. You would be a gallant enemy in any battle. But this thing I know—and if necessary—I can furnish proof."

Ellen's truant impulse died hard. It was reasonable that he, being of their blood, would deliberately betray them and rob them for his own selfish gain?

"Reasonable?" said Deteroux with a short, barking laugh. "Not to us, perhaps. But what is that which is said about the half-breed? He has all the vices and none of the virtues of either side of his heritage. Perhaps in John Benham this is also true. The Indian in him schemes to satisfy the greed of his white ancestry. If you had known men as I have known them, mam'selle, you would not wonder at anything they do."

Ellen Mackay was crouched in the bow of a slender birch-bark canoe.

Ellen was silent for a long time. Her mode of attack was simple and direct. Proof of no trickery on her side. Grudgingly she gave in. "You must be right, Mr. Deteroux. There is no other way in which he could have stolen the trade from us in so short a time."

"You reason correctly, mam'selle," said Deteroux, and it seemed as though there was an unconscious note of triumph in his voice. "I hope you will not think of me now as just a gabbling old woman, but one who sincerely wishes to help your father and you. Facts, though unpleasant, must be faced squarely and uncompromisingly. And if at any time I can be of further help to you, you have but to command."

"Thank you. You have already shown me a way out of my dilemma. May I presume to ask what that is?"

"Of course. It is to furnish proof to the law that John Benham is trading whisky to the tribes. He will then be removed quickly and for good."

Deteroux seemed to hesitate. Something flashed in his eyes, which seemed momentarily to show emotion for the first time. Then he caught up his guard again. "I hesitate to warn you, mam'selle. But you must always remember that John Benham is fighting for high stakes. In a pinch he might become quite ruthless."

"I am not afraid," said Ellen. "I, too, can be ruthless."

"That is true," nodded Deteroux thoughtfully. "Well, duty calls, and the river trails are long. I will see you again, mam'selle—when I return."

Ellen suffered him to bow over her hand, though at the contact of his hand, calloused palm she could hardly repress a shiver. Stranger of all, perhaps, was the fact that she could not analyze that flurry of feeling. It might have been repugnance, or then again it might have been something else. There was no denying the magnetism and virility of this man. Then another strange thing happened. As Deteroux swung his huge bulk through the doorway, Ellen caught a glimpse of old Moosac's wrinkled face just beyond, and Moosac was openly snarling.

At sight of the Indian, Deteroux

RASPBERRIES IN SEASON
The raspberry is easily the most important bush fruit grown in Canada. It is now in season, and the recipes given here are suggested by the Fruit Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Raspberry Mille Torte
1 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
1-1/2 tsp. baking powder
4 egg yolks
1/2 cup white sugar
1 cup sugar
4 cups raspberries
5 tsp. milk
1/2 cup butter

Sift flour with baking powder three times; cream butter and sugar, add egg yolks one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition; add flour and milk alternately in small amounts, beating well. Spread in two greased 9-inch layer cake pans. Bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees F. for 1/2 hour. Make a meringue by beating egg whites with 1/2 cup sugar until the mixture will stand in peaks. Spread on hot cake and return to the oven. Bake until meringue is browned. Spread with sweetened crushed raspberries—between the layers and on top. Serve with whipped cream, if desired.

1 egg
1 cup milk
1/2 cup fresh raspberries

Sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Beat egg well; add milk and melted butter. Make an indentation in the flour and pour in milk and egg mix; add berries and pour into well greased muffin pans. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.-375 degrees F.) 25 minutes. Serve hot.

Raspberry Icing
Thoroughly crush 1/2 cup fresh red raspberries with a fork. Add 1 tablespoon melted butter and sufficient icing sugar (about 1 1/2 cups) to make of the required stiffness. This is an excellent icing for plain white cake or chocolate cake.

Raspberry Cake
1 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup butter
2 eggs
1 cup raspberries
2 cups flour
1 tsp. milk
4 tsp. baking powder
Cream butter and sugar; add egg yolks and beat well; add berries and when the cold merciless hand of winter shut down again? A quick survey and a question or two to which she received hardly more than a grunt in answer, showed Ellen that their winter's catch of furs were gone. These furs had gone to purchase "firewater," when they should have been used to trade for food and blankets, clothes, ammunition, and other supplies to carry the camp through another winter.

There was nothing Ellen could do. She felt presently, with the whole tawdry picture etched upon her brain beyond forgetting. There was no making this evidence. It lay all about the camp in the form of dozens of empty whisky bottles.

Ellen travelled ceaselessly. Bending her strong body to the task of paddling, she drove Moosac to the labouring end of the old Chippewyan was hunched with weariness. She found camps of Yellowknives and Dogribs, of Rae and Simpson and Hay River Indians in which conditions approximated to those of that first camp. Everywhere lay the evidence of the white man's murderous greed and the Indian's stupid weakness. She shivered whenever she thought of what would happen when the winter shut down again. Everywhere she looked instead of seeing the rioting splendour of the spring, the dread spectre of famine and wholesale death seemed. It was there before her eyes as she dropped to sleep at night and was still with her when she awakened at dawn. (Continued next week) milk then flour sifted with baking powder. Lastly fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in a buttered loaf pan at 350 degrees F. for 40 minutes.

And now for some suggestions about serving these fresh-kept vegetables. Have you ever tried serving shredded spinach-in-the-green in a tomato salad bowl or as a "liner" for a vegetable salad plate? It's simple and easy to do as is serving raw cauliflower, flowerets and curled carrot slivers on the relish tray. And did you ever try to glamourize a cucumber? This very simple and high in style to serve thinly sliced cucumbers with the skin left on. However, if you prefer young pears, then before slicing, run the time of a fork along the length of the pared cucumber; this imparts an attractive notched edge to the cucumber when it is sliced.

You can often add interest to vegetables just by a new twist in cutting them. Try using the fruit baller for potatoes, large carrots and turnips. Or, use the lattice cutter on carrots, beets and potatoes and the children will eat them with a new zest. Fresh chopped mint or parsley when embedded in a rich cream sauce over vegetables gives them an added fillip. The goodness of grated cheese added to cream sauce is something to remember. And then did you ever consider escalloping vegetables, other than potatoes? They're delicious when embedded in a rich cream sauce and topped with a sprinkling of toasted crumbs. French fried vegetables make a grand change, too.

SOUR MILK CAKE
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 large lump butter
1 large lump lard
Mix well together, then add:
1/2 cup baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda, dissolved in 1/4 cup of sour milk
1 full cup sour milk
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cloves
1/2 cup floured, seedless raisins
2 cups sifted flour
Mix all together and bake in a medium oven about twenty-five minutes.

Peppers With Meat Stuffing
6 green peppers
1 cup cooked meat, chopped fine
1/2 cup bread or cracker crumbs
Milk or cream
Cut off the tops of the peppers or cut them in two lengthwise, and remove the inner fibers and seeds. Drop into boiling water, remove from the fire, let stand ten to twelve minutes, then drain.

Mix the meat with the bread or cracker crumbs and moisten with a little milk or cream. Be sure that it is rather highly seasoned. Fill the peppers with the mixture and serve at once or cover with buttered crumbs and brown in the oven.

Fish Souffle
1 cup cooked fish
1 cup mashed potatoes
2 eggs
1/2 cup milk
Salt and pepper
Mix cold cooked haddock, or other old left-over fish, with mashed potatoes, milk, salt and pepper. Stir in one egg, beaten. Put in an oiled mold, or dish and set in the oven until hot. Beat the white of the other egg stiff and stir into it the beaten yolk seasoned with salt and pepper; heap this over the fish and brown.

OLD-FASHIONED FRIED CHICKEN
Dredge with flour to which salt and pepper have been added. At this point, you can place the chicken in your refrigerator. When you come home all you need do is heat the fat in a frying pan—(about 1 inch deep) then add chicken. Cover and cook slowly turning occasionally until chicken is golden brown and tender—about 45 minutes.

"PINK" LEMONADE
2/3 cup lemon juice
1/4 cup canned cherry juice
1/4 cup corn syrup
1 pint gingerale

Blend together lemon juice, cherry juice and corn syrup. Just before serving, add chilled gingerale. Pour in tall lemonade glasses and add sparkling ice cubes.

MERRY-GO-ROUND CAKE
It's lots of fun to make and the children think there's nothing like it. Just make your favorite white layer cake and ice it with a swirling soft chocolate icing. Then take animal crackers and stand their feet in the semi-solid icing around the top edge of the cake so that they look like the animals on a merry-go-round. Cut as many 6-inch strips of narrow ribbon as there are animal crackers and tie to the end of a stick of peppermint candy with a small piece of ribbon. Stick the other end of the peppermint sticks in the center of the cake, then draw a ribbon out and tie around the neck.

FROSTY DRINKS FOR SUMMER HOSTESSES

Simple Syrup

One-half cup sugar, 1/2 cup water. Put sugar and water in a smooth sauce pan. Stir over heat until sugar is dissolved. Boil five minutes without stirring.

For lemon syrup add juice of 4 lemons.

To make berry, cherry, peach or other fruit syrups add from 1 to 2 cups fruit to boiling syrup, crush and let stand until cooled before straining through a fine sieve.

This amount of syrup diluted with ice water will make four tall glasses or eight small punch glasses of the beverage.

Orange eggnog is a nourishing drink. Serve it with sandwiches of various kinds some hot noon.

Orange Eggnog

One egg, 2 oranges, 1 cup chilled milk, 1 tablespoon sugar, few grains salt, crushed ice.

Squeeze juice from oranges and grate rind. Add rind to juice and let stand while preparing other ingredients.

Ingredients. Separate yolk from white of egg. Beat yolk with sugar and add strained juice. Beat well and add milk and salt. Mix thoroughly and fold in white of egg beaten until stiff. This rule makes two servings. Be sure to chill orange and egg as well as milk before mixing.

If you are vacationing in the mountains near the water you will want at least one dress made of a new material known as textured knit. It is made of cotton but cooler than wool. It's ideal for sudden cold evenings. A combination of spun rayon, cotton and mohair, textured embodies the virtues of each and is washable. It is excellent for early fall school dresses and street dresses, too, when it's too warm to wear woollens and too late to wear cottons.

Oilcloth cut in scallops and bound with bright colored bias seam binding makes an attractive valance for the kitchen windows. If you use tie-backs make them of oilcloth, too.

LIPIOD PNEUMONIA

By his inventiveness man is constantly creating new hazards for himself and his family. Here is one of them: lipiod pneumonia. It seems that nature did not intend our lungs to cope with oil substances. Our intestines can digest animal and vegetable fats and do not seem to be harmed by mineral oils so long as these are pure. But the lungs cannot digest fats and cannot get rid of any kind of oil. The effort to do so results in inflammation and inflammation of the lungs is pneumonia.

Lipiod pneumonia, according to present knowledge, is chiefly a disease of young children. The helpless infants suffer large doses of oily nose drops from well meaning relatives; oil runs down the windpipe and collects in droplets in the lungs. Usually the resulting pneumonia is local. No doubt the baby is sick but the cause of its sickness remains unsuspected. Sometimes the pneumonia becomes general and the baby dies. Pneumonia is a common cause of death in infancy. Undoubtedly lipiod pneumonia is not yet sufficient to say how often it is a cause of death.

But the risk is now plain enough to see. Nose drops should never be given to young children except by doctor's orders and following carefully his directions. Nor should cod liver oil or castor oil or any other oil be forced down small protesting throats. That, too, may result in the dangerous consequences of getting oil into the lungs.

They remind you of the friendly, personal service they offer.

They bring to your attention the saving in time, patience and mileage effected in trading in Wainwright.

The amount of business given local merchants and professional folk in Wainwright determines the type of service rendered.

This paper commends the people in Wainwright who have the trade at home habit. It shows good common sense. Thereby is a strong community spirit fostered. The pity is that all do not trade exclusively at home.

Some Wainwright merchants are themselves to blame, perhaps, for a good part of the trading done by Wainwright people away from home—because they do not advertise the fact that they carry as good goods at as attractive prices as their competitors in neighboring cities and towns.

WAGES near 1929 peak
The average weekly wages of workers in American industries have increased by more than 16 per cent in the past year, although the length of the average work week has been reduced by 15 per cent, the National Industrial Conference Board reports. That means that the average hourly wage of industrial workers has gone up much more than the weekly wage. The weekly earnings of factory hands are now almost exactly where they were at the peak of the "boom" in 1929, while the number now unemployed in industry is higher than it was then.

This would mean real prosperity if the buying power of wages were as great as it was in 1929, and on that point the Board's report is equally optimistic. The "real" weekly wage, adjusted to actual living costs, is 12 per cent above the 1929 average.

Some will attribute this improvement in the American worker's condition to politics. Personally I regard it as something which was inevitable, which would have come about faster if there had been less political interference.

NEGROES

Southern boons
A few weeks ago I visited a typical Southern plantation and had a chance to learn how the Negro employees were treated. There are thirty families employed the year round on this ten-thousand acre tract, with extra help at cotton-picking and harvest time. The head of each family is paid $30 a month. They get living quarters and fuel free, and all they want of the food-stuffs grown on the place. Most of the cabins have gardens and poultry. The Negroes have their own community center or "jook" where they have their dances and social affairs. In case of illness, they get free medical care.

How many Northern white workers I wonder, have $30 a month left after paying rent, food and doctor's bills? Not many. In addition, the women and older children are given first chance on this plantation to earn extra money at picking time. The Negro foreman gets $50 a month and better quarters.

I was reminded of what Booker T. Washington, the great Negro educator, said to me years ago. "The best friend of the Southern Negro is the Southern white man."

JERUSALEM The Moslems
To every Christian, as to every Jew, there is something so sacred about the Holy City that it seems almost a sacrilege to abandon Jerusalem to the Mohammedans, as is proposed by the British commission which has drawn up plans for the new Jewish State of Palestine. "If I forget thee, O Jerusalem, let my right hand forget her cunning," sang the writer of the 137th Psalm.

"If I do not remember thee, let my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth, if I prefer not Jerusalem to my chief joy."

But while it is a sentimental shock to abandon Jerusalem to the Moslems, when one remembers the blood spilled in the Crusades and the World War to recapture it from them, the practical fact is that the experience of the past twenty years has proved that the Jews and the Arabs cannot occupy the same territory peacefully. So the new Jewish State will go back to the ancient home of the race, Samaria and Galilee, leaving most of Judea to the Arabs.

After all, the Ark of the Covenant was brought to Jerusalem by David from Shiloh, in Samaria.

BOOZE I note one liquor advertiser is warning people not to drive if they drink, nor drink if they drive. It is eternally true that liquor and gasoline in combination make a deadly mixture.

Not long ago I attended a convention to which a hundred or so men had come from long distances, mostly in automobiles, a few in airplanes. There was a drinking party in a hotel room across from mine. I heard one man refuse a drink, because he had to start to drive home that night. "I'm going to fly my own plane home," said another, "and I suppose I ought to lay off, but I'll just take one more drink."

The flyer crashed the next day, trying to land at the airport in his home town. Two others of the drinking party were in serious automobile accidents on their way home; the wife of one of them was killed. Liquor and gasoline don't mix.

FREEDOM press and speech
The greatest danger to human liberty comes when obstacles are put in the way of the free expression of truth or of opinion. We have taken the Constitutional guarantee of freedom of speech and of the press for granted for so many years that we have been slow to see the signs of attempts to muzzle the press and to prevent people from saying in public what they believe.

I see signs all around me of efforts to suppress the free expression of opinion. It has always seemed to me that any principle policy or program whether political or otherwise, which cannot stand up under free discussion, is not very soundly based. But I see even newspaper men ally themselves with institutions which put loyalty to the organization ahead of loyalty to truth and free speech. Those are danger signs. "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." One of the first lessons I learned as a young newspaper man was to be wary of the man or group who wanted to "keep something out of the paper."

This Week in Washington

Washington.—The sudden death of Senator "Joe" Robinson of Arkansas, leader of the Administration forces in the factional battle in the Senate over the President's Supreme Court project, resulted in intensifying the differences between the opponents of the plan and the adherents of Mr. Roosevelt.

The situation precipitated by the Court fight is being checked by a time political observers to the split in the Republican party which arose in Congress in 1906. The "Insurgent" movement which began in that year was not so much a revolt against President Taft as against the entire Republican party leadership.

It resulted in splitting the party wide open, bringing Theodore Roosevelt back into political life as a third-party candidate in 1912, on the Progressive or "Bull Moose" ticket, and the election of Woodrow Wilson, the first Democratic presidential victory for twenty years.

Fear of Party Split
The fear that the present split in the Democratic party may have as great political consequences as the Republican split of 1912 has been openly voiced. It is used as an argument for loyal Democrats to support the President, whatever their personal convictions.

Equally open are the expressions by Democratic opponents of another deep-rooted fear, the fear that the President's court program will pave the road toward something like an American version of Fascism, by concentrating power in the hands of the Executive and opening the door for a "totalitarian state," in which control of all acts of all citizens would be centered in Washington and the rights of the people would be subordinated to the will of government.

To the Democrats in both Houses of Congress who believe that is the purpose, or at least the probable effect of the President's plan, the situation calls for a choice of loyalties. They can either go along with the President for the sake of party harmony and future victories at the polls or they can maintain that their first loyalty is not to the party and is leader but to the nation and its people.

Senator Robinson Loyal to One
Senator Robinson chose the course of political loyalty. Those closest in his confidence say that he did not like the President's court plan and particularly disliked the President's failure to consult with him and other leaders of the Congressional majority before proposing it. But he viewed his obligation as leader of the President's party in the Senate in the traditional American manner and set out to do the best he could for a measure which was personally repugnant to him, but which was politically expedient.

He did succeed in getting the President to accept the Logan-Hatch bill, but that did not lessen the vigor of the Opposition. So Joe Robinson died fighting for a cause in which his heart was not, a loyal party man to the end.

There is little doubt that Senator Robinson's death can be attributed in some measure to the deadly Washington climate, which has killed scores of statesmen in the past. The direct cause of his death was heart failure, brought on by his untiring labors in behalf of the Court bill. Senator Copeland of New York, who practiced medicine for many years and is a sort of consulting physician to the Senate, warned Senator Robinson, a week before he died, that he was flirting with death. Mr. Robinson was on the verge of collapse when he finished his first speech, opening the debate on the bill. He complained to friends on several occasions that the heat of Washington's summers nearly overcame him, especially the abrupt change from the Autumn coolness of the air-conditioned Senate to the stifling atmosphere outside.

Washington's Heat Unbearable

There is no escaping the heat in Washington. It is seldom tempered by dry winds, such as make the heat of the mid-western prairies bearable and the nation's capital is too far inland to get the sea-breezes which temper the nights, at least, of coastal cities and make Florida a more comfortable place in Summer than Chicago.

Washington's climate has often been described as that of a steaming jungle, its swampy tidal marshes giving off a humidity which makes Summer nights almost unbearable. Unless one sleeps in an artificially cooled apartment there is no escape from the oppressive, enervating torridity of the average Washington Summer night.

In such an atmosphere men past middle age risk their lives when they undertake such strenuous labors as are involved in a struggle like the one over the Court bill. Many other Senators have been warned, by Senator Copeland and other physicians. That so many of them on both sides of the controversy, persist in literally taking their lives in their hands in the face of such warnings, is eloquent testimony to the depths of their convictions and the bitterness and intensity of the struggle.

The opposition Senators in the Democratic ranks are keenly aware that this is a battle to the death, politically speaking; and there is reason to believe that the President takes a similar vow. One side or the other must win a decisive victory, or the issue of control of the party will be merely postponed.

If the Court bill wins, the President's control is secure, and its opponents will have to choose between retiring from public life by being read out of the party, or surrendering on the best terms they can make to preserve their party regularity. They are keenly aware of the truth of the old adage: "When you strike at a king you must kill him."

The President is alive to that, too. He has "got his Dutch up," as one of his close advisers put it, and is fighting with every weapon at his New Deal policies and control by the Democratic party. The President believes that the mass of the voters is still on his side, prepared to back him in whatever he proposes and to follow him wherever he leads.

HARVEST IS HERE AGAIN

And it will be a small harvest at the best. We have the Gilbert Harvester Stacker that will get the most out of what you grow, and save it against all hazards. Once your crop is in the stack, come what may—hail, snow, or wind—your grain is protected. If you should get snowed in before threshing your stack can well stay until next year, and then thresh the same grade of wheat as you cut this year.

Some are afraid of the pig-weed this year, but tests have been made whereby one can use ventilators or driers and still stack the grain. By this method one can safely stack the grain right from the cutting bar. By this method alfalfa and sweet clover have been stacked without previous curing and been properly cured and made into better feed than by the old method.

Science has been working for your benefit, and the GILBERT HARVESTER STACKER is one device that will do more for the saving of your valuable crop than the old binder method.

For those who will use the binder method of harvesting, may we remind you that we still sell the old reliable BRANFORD BINDER TWINE. This twine has long been recognized as the best of all. Well treated for insects and mice; full weight and length in every ball. Always sold at competitive prices now quoted at—

550 Ft. Silver Leaf, per cwt. $10.00
600 Ft. Gold Leaf, per cwt. $10.75

Come in and get the dope on the Gilbert Harvester Stacker. It's yours for the asking. We will use our influence in helping to organize partnership arrangements when necessary, if your crop does not have the acreage to warrant the purchase of the machine individually.

Trophy Donated by S. J. Hungerford

CHESTER, N.E.—In recognition of the outstanding place which the province of Nova Scotia is achieving among sportsmen for tuna fishing, a magnificent trophy, to be competed for annually, has been donated to the Owl's Head Tuna Camps here by S. J. Hungerford, Chairman and President of the Canadian National Railways. The trophy, which is in the form of a silver rose bowl mounted on a mahogany base, around the sides of which are small silver shields on which is to be engraved the name of the sportsman catching the largest tuna for the season with particulars of the catch, was presented to the club recently.

The biggest tuna so far caught off this shore weighed 966 pounds, which established a record three years ago. It was landed by a Chicago sportsman, Thomas Howell. Zane Grey for a long period held the record for a tuna, which was caught off the south shore of this province, and weighed 758 pounds.
